

Writer's Name: _____

You're on a Gigantic Roll...
inspired by James and the Giant Peach by Roald Dahl

What giant object will roll through your story?	What setting will it roll through?

What specific features of your gigantic object might you draw your readers' attention to?	What smaller features of your setting will your gigantic object affect as rolls through?

Other than roll , what interesting verbs can use to describe your gigantic object?	How might people be reacting as your giant object rolls through?

As your giant object hits things, what particles might it leave behind?	What sounds might your giant object make as it runs into things?

Now...go write your paragraph about a gigantic object rolling through a setting!
