

Two Lions

by Dan, seventh grade writer

I wake up,

I'm hungry,

I go hunting,

I spot a zebra,

I'm chasing it,

I catch it,

I eat it,

I'm sleeping.

I'm sleeping.

I'm sleeping.

I'm sleeping.

I wake up,

watching.

I get ready for lunch.

I eat it,

And go back to sleep.

Life by the Pond

by Brenda, seventh grade writer

I am a tadpole.

I live in water.

I can only live in water.

I can only live in water.

I swim with my brothers and sisters.

But I am happy,
my life is this way.

I am a frog.

I live on land.

I can go anywhere I want,
Swim in a pond or
Hop through the fields.

I am by myself until I find another frog.

But I am happy,
my life is this way.

49ers

by Chris, seventh grade writer

I'm a Notre Dame star.

And I'm a 12th round draft pick.

I throw the ball,

I catch it.

I risk fumbling,

I risk an interception.

I've beaten Dan Marino
and John Elway.

I had to hustle with Jack Lambert and Mike Singletary.

Being the quarter back is the hardest position,

Being the wide receiver
is the hardest position.
