

An original piece of student writing inspired by one of WritingFix's Digital Photo Prompts

photo taken by elementary student, Jacob Sammons

World

a poem by Riley, seventh grade writer

To you

You can hide,
but you're seen to the world.

You can run,
but you'll
never escape
your reason, your choice

To carry
the guilt,
the pain
that you make.

You can live,
but you've lost what you
don't deserve,
your freedom.

So, you can try,
but you
can't hide from the world.

What do you like about Riley's writing style? Which writing trait(s) does he excel with?

What story or poem might you write inspired by this photograph?