

Writer's Name: _____

The Ten-Day Diary of a _____ – Rough Draft

An original writing assignment from WritingFix (<http://writingfix.org>)

Instructions: Today you will be writing a 10-day diary for something that wouldn't keep a diary. You need to try to use one of your interesting facts from your research in each of your 10 entries.

What topic did you research?

Diary Entry, Day #1: Include one interesting fact about your topic as you recount something interesting that happened during its day:

Date:

What happens? (2 or 3 sentences):

Diary Entry, Day #2: Include one interesting fact about your topic as you recount something interesting that happened during its day:

Date:

What happens? (2 or 3 sentences):

Diary Entry, Day #3: Include one interesting fact about your topic as you recount something interesting that happened during its day:

Date:

What happens? (2 or 3 sentences):

Diary Entry, Day #4: Include one interesting fact about your topic as you recount something interesting that happened during its day:

Date:

What happens? (2 or 3 sentences):

Diary Entry, Day #5: Include one interesting fact about your topic as you recount something interesting that happened during its day:

Date:

What happens? (2 or 3 sentences):

Diary Entry, Day #6: Include one interesting fact about your topic as you recount something interesting that happened during its day:

Date:

What happens? (2 or 3 sentences):

Diary Entry, Day #7: Include one interesting fact about your topic as you recount something interesting that happened during its day:

Date:

What happens? (2 or 3 sentences):

Diary Entry, Day #8: Include one interesting fact about your topic as you recount something interesting that happened during its day:

Date:

What happens? (2 or 3 sentences):

Diary Entry, Day #9: Include one interesting fact about your topic as you recount something interesting that happened during its day:

Date:

What happens? (2 or 3 sentences):

Diary Entry, Day #10: Include one interesting fact about your topic as you recount something interesting that happened during its day:

Date:

What happens? (2 or 3 sentences):