

The Home News Report

by Michelle, third grade story-reporter

We interrupt this program for a special broadcast. Apparently, someone has been sneaking around the cookie jar. And figure out how two dogs can cause a burst of laughter. Only on KOLO News at 6:00.

My friends and I had a playdate on a chilly winter day. They brought cheesy pepperoni and pineapple pizzas over. We filled our plates and left the rest of the pizza on the low table in the living room. We carelessly let the dogs in and left the living room to go eat in the kitchen.

Later my Mom went in and screamed, "Duke!" I ran in to see what was going on, and the next thing I knew Duke was eating the rest of the pizza, and Bell was eating the box. Bell tripped on Duke's foot and Duke howled. We all started to laugh.

We now return to our regular program. We hope you learned a lesson about pizza and dogs.

Inspired by Margie Palatini's Tub-boo-boo, Michelle wrote her own story where she tried to show off her organization and voice skills. Look over her story and talk about where you see her best skills with these two writing traits.

The lesson that inspired this writing was found on-line at the WritingFix website:
<http://writingfix.com>